Reasons why we need this specific #:*

As a new technology startup who is competing with the big companies it really helps us with marketing at job fairs and University job fairs for us to target new talent that we can develop and train as we grow our company and add jobs to the marketplace. We also need this for when we attend trade shows and do recruitment to make it easier for our future employees, future customers and the general public to easily be able to get in touch with us.

This number is imperative for us to succeed as for us this is more than just a phone number it helps us complete our branding strategy, and it allows us the freedom to take our business to the companies who can best serve our needs and meet our price points as we are a startup and looking to grow and add new jobs in the coming months.

I realize that this vanity 833 # has been requested by multiple phone companies and won't be decided until at least the Fall of 2017. Fields with * are required. The FCC has the final say on who they feel is the most appropriate customer for each disputed number and there is no fee or expense if we don't get it for you. All information submitted must be accurate and should be posted at the FCC website, <https://www.fcc.gov/ecfs/filings> only AFTER they request public comment regarding the process to decide the 833 #s requested by more than one phone company. I certify that the information above is true and correct, and I am the valid end user, not hoarding or brokering and requesting this 833number exclusively for use by myself or my organization.
